

WELLKNOWN COUNTRY MAN TRIES TO TAKE OWN LIFE WITH GUN

John Barthelmas, 70, Reported in Serious Condition in Berger Hospital

SHOT UNDER HEART
Act Is Witnessed by Wife and Son's Family

John Barthelmas, aged 70, well known Pickaway-co farmer, is in a serious condition at Berger hospital suffering from a self-inflicted wound from a .22 caliber rifle. Mr. Barthelmas shot himself on the porch at his home in Washington-twp, three miles from this city, on the old Tilton road, at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in what is thought a fit of despondency.

He underwent an operation Monday morning at the hospital for the removal of the bullet which entered his body just below the heart. Although he remains critical, Berger hospital attaches report that he has a good chance to survive his wound.

Mr. Barthelmas had been in the city and went home Sunday afternoon. He went into the bedroom at his home and apparently went to bed. His son, Arthur Barthelmas and family, of E. Franklin-st., were spending the afternoon at the home with Mrs. Barthelmas. At 4:30 p. m. Arthur and his family started to leave the house to go home and had entered their automobile.

The elder Mr. Barthelmas came to the kitchen door of the house and said "Good-by everybody." All looked around to bid him goodby when Mrs. Arthur Barthelmas observed that he had a gun in his hand. He pointed the rifle to his chest and fired before anyone could reach his side. He fell back into the kitchen badly injured.

Dr. D. V. Courtright was summoned and the Mader & Ebert ambulance was called and Mr. Barthelmas was rushed to the hospital where he was given immediate attention.

The son Monday blamed intoxicating liquor for his father's act. He said he had been in town Saturday evening and had been feeling well. Later in the evening, he said, he obtained some whiskey and was placed in the city jail. He was released Sunday afternoon and went to his home where he attempted to take his life.

Fight In State Assembly Seen

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 23.—With but three short weeks to get desirable legislation enacted and undesirable legislation diplomatically erased from the thoughts of its supporters, the general assembly returned to the state capital today resolved to work cooperatively but well aware of impending fights on two important topics -- steel and highways.

One battlecry was sounded by Rep. Charles H. Jones (R) of Jackson, when he announced that he will lead a determined opposition to the Whittemore bill through which he thinks the Youngstown Sheet & Tube-Bethlehem steel merger controversy has been brought to the state legislature for a verdict.

DROVE WHILE DRUNK, HELD

Three Local Men Arrested By City Police; Other News of Courts Given.

Three persons, allegedly intoxicated automobile drivers, were apprehended by the city police department and the sheriff's office over the week-end with the result that two of the men were fined by Mayor B. T. Hedges and the third was to be given a hearing Monday afternoon.

Earl Moore was fined $100 and costs Monday morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated Saturday night when the Ford car he was driving collided with the Ford belonging to Fred Fissell, Jr. Both cars were damaged considerably. The Ford Moore was driving was not his own thus his drivers' license could not be revoked but Mayor Hedges took his privilege to drive a car away for six months.

March Barnes, E. Main-st. extension, furnished bond for payment of a fine of $100 and costs totalling $8.75, assessed when he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. It is necessary for Mr. Barnes to drive his car in his work so his license was not revoked.

John Sabine was to be given a hearing this afternoon on a similar charge. It is charged that Sabine struck a parked car on N. Court-st Saturday night.

DEERCREEK-TWPLAD WINS HIGHEST MARK IN TEST FOR SENIORS

BOARD WILL TURN DOWN 1931 WHEAT

Federal Farm Board Now Makes Announcements to End Stabilization

MUCH MONEY IS LOST
Board Turns About-face Under New Leader

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—Announcement by the federal farm board that government funds are not going to be thrown into the Chicago wheat pit to stabilize prices on the 1931 crop was interpreted here today as marking the end of the great governmental experiment in the wheat-buying business.

Already gorged with wheat which it is unable to digest or dispose of, except at enormous monetary loss, the board, under its new chairman, James C. Stone, has decided upon a radical about-face in the policy it pursued under the direction of Alexander H. Legge.

CARRIED WARNING
Boiled down to essentials, the board's announcement earned to the growers the blunt warning that they can no longer look to the government to take the surplus off the market in order to peg prices. The remedy, the board stated, lies with the producers themselves in reducing their acreage so that 1931 will not produce a further unmanageable surplus.

The effect of this warning and the new policy remains to be seen. But on all sides today it was accepted that the board's action would serve to accelerate a demand in the new 72nd Congress for trial of the debenture or equalization fee schemes of dealing with the wheat situation. It is a prospect and a situation that bodes little peace for the Hoover administration, which came into power two years ago on the promise of solving the farm riddle which has plagued every administration since the war.

"Stabilization operations (government buying)" the board said, "are emergency measures and entail a heavy cost. The grain stabilization corporation has acquired and is acquiring very large stocks of wheat. It cannot indefinitely buy more than it sells, or indefinitely hold what it has bought. It cannot follow a regular policy of buying at prices above the market, paying heavy storage charges and selling below cost. Farmers know this, and would not ask that it be done."

The announcement did not state how much wheat the board now owns. Its operations in the market necessarily must be kept "to a certain degree secret from the private operators. The general impression, however, in Washington and in the trade is that the board now holds some 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, which it has bought at prices ranging all the way from 75 cents to $1.25 a bushel. The present Chicago price is around 79 cents, as against 60 at Liverpool.

CLUE FOUND IN YOUTH'S DEATH

PORTSMOUTH, O., Mar. 23.—A new clue was followed today by police sought to unravel the mystery surrounding the slaying of William S. Wright, 18-year-old Wheelersburg High School student, on April 30, 1929.

From Katherine Scott, 17, of Beckley, W. Va., authorities hoped to obtain information that would lead to the identity of the youth's murderer. The girl was taken into custody on a charge of witness following statements of officers that she was with Wright the night he was slain.

Upsets Finish State Tourney

COLUMBUS, O., March 23.—All "ifs and ands" considered, those fighting floor-men of Portsmouth and Youngstown Fitch high schools today basked in hard-earned public favor as the 1931 Class A and B basketball championships.

Coveted shields fittingly engraved with the brief information designating the two teams as winners of the ninth renewal of the annual Buckeye state cage tournament could not tell the stories of sheer gameness that won these trophies.

There was the hair-raising 16 to 15 triumph over Akron West in the semi-finals, which set the stage for Portsmouth's more thrilling championship fight with Canton McKinley in the finals.

Canton, showing no less courage than the Trojans, fought an uphill battle which was climaxed when the Presidents drove into a scant lead in the last minute of play. Doll of Portsmouth, with 10 fleeting seconds to go, dropped in the tying bucket to send the game into overtime.

Canton again raced into the advantage, seemingly clinching the game with a three-point lead, only to suffer the supreme blow when Moore and Cropper fairly burned up the floor to add a brace of baskets which found the count 20-19 when the final whistle came.

Lancaster St. Mary's had experienced no great difficulty in winning its way into the finals, and was expected to "go to town" with the Fitch quintet from Youngstown.

The Mahoning Valley boys seemingly had gotten off on the wrong foot and were in for one of those graceless drubbings sometimes

Shorts About "Red Birds"

COLUMBUS, O., March 23. Governor George White has accepted the invitation of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce to be one of the guests of honor at the baseball dinner to be held April 9 at the Neil House honoring the new officers and players of the Columbus Red Birds.

Hickey, president of the American Association, and L. S. MacPhail, president of the Red Birds, as well as Manager Leibold and his players will be honored.

Amateur and semi-pro baseball players of Central Ohio, who are anxious to meet Manager Leibold and his Columbus Red Birds, will have opportunity to do so at the baseball dinner to be held April 9 at the Neil House.

This dinner being sponsored by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce in honor of the Red Birds, players and officials, has been thrown open to the public. Reservations may be made by teams. Several semi-pro teams have already reserved tables.

Complete renovation and some improvements which will add materially to the comfort of fans are now under way at Neil Park, the home nest of the Columbus Red Birds.

President L. S. MacPhail has a crew of men busy at the Park daily making ready for the opening of the American Association season with the Milwaukee Brewers on April 14. Several posts are being removed in the grandstand to make vision clearer. New steel struts are replacing the old wooden beams.

As truly as the St. Louis Cardinals are the Cardinals, the Columbus Red Birds will be the red birds. For on the home uniforms of the Red Birds there will be perched a red bird surrounded by a black C. The road uniforms will be gray with Columbus spelled across the front.

OHIO'S HORSEMEN HAVE 8 CONTESTS

COLUMBUS, O.—An eight-game schedule, the most pretentious ever arranged for an Ohio State polo team, is faced by Buckeye horsemen this Spring. With the resumption of classes Tuesday, regular practice will be in order at the varsity polo field near the Stadium.

Save for Nicholas Zink of Columbus, the same team will be back this Spring which last Fall won four out of five games played. Based on past performances and experience, Harold Baron, Cincinnati, is practically assured of the No. 2 post, while Paul Rice of Dayton, has the inside track for No. 3. The two other playing positions lie between David Shorr of Cincinnati, and Justus Koch and Nash Kelley of Columbus.

Other likely looking prospects include two sophomores, Kenneth Haley of Springfield, and Kenneth Hart of Columbus, and two seniors, George Stafford of Delta, and Leonard Gerrard of Columbus. Although fully six weeks intervene before the first game, the 30 mounts of the Buckeye squad will see plenty of action.

The schedule opens with Cornell at Ithaca on May 8 and with Army at West Point the following day. The Princeton squad, 1930, outdoor intercollegiate champions, comes to Columbus on May 16. The Buckeye team then plays host to Arizona on May 21, Chicago on May 23, Missouri on May 28 and 30, and winds up with a match against the alumni on June 6.

INVITE SCHOOLS TO TRACK MEETS

DEFIANCE.—Five hundred Ohio and Michigan schools have been invited by Athletic Director Paul R. Lyne of Defiance College to participate in the fourth annual interscholastic relays which will be held here April 24 and 25.

Central High School of Columbus, which for three years has finished in first place in the Class A division has indicated that it will be back to compete again, and Toledo Scott, which finished second in 1930 and 1929, also is expected to enter, assuring participation by some of the state's outstanding athletes.

All the standard track and field events will be held in both classes, and gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded winners of the three places in the individual events.

The relays, founded in 1928 by former Athletic Director L. B. (Bud) Wilson, now coach at Lake Forest, Ill. Academy, have been sanctioned by the National Federation of High Schools Athletic Associations and the Michigan and Ohio State Associations.

$1 LICENSE FOR FISHERS APPROVED

COLUMBUS, O., March 23.—Enthusiastic approval of a proposed $1 angler's license was voiced here today by the League of Ohio Sportsmen and its 75,000 members.

Delegates at a meeting of the league yesterday were almost unanimously will to support a bill by Senator Roy J. Gillen (R) of Wellston now before the legislature which would require a $1 license for all persons over 18 except landowners fishing on their own lands.

Officials of the organization told delegates what license receipts under provisions of the Gillen bill would be used by the state for the purpose of restocking Ohio waters with game fish.

Ray F. Lawrence of Youngstown, elected first vice president of the league at yesterday's meeting, in announcing results of the discussion today, declared that all delegates and members will be asked to urge state legislators to vote to enact the Gillen bill into law.

Lawrence was elected first vice president to succeed Harry Walter Hutchins of Cincinnati, who resigned when he was appointed to the state conservation council by Governor George White.

M. L. Bingham of Cincinnati, president of the Southwestern Ohio Fish and Game Protective association, was elected to the league's district executive board to succeed Hutchins.

THIS RECORD WORTH OWNING

WOOSTER, O.—Scoring 603 points to 217 by their opponents, and winning 17 consecutive games, the Creston High School Girl's basketball team has concluded its 1930-31 season clinching a three-year record of 48 victories and one loss.

In 1929, when the team was first organized, the Creston loop artists copped 13 games before losing in the semi-finals of the county tournament. Last year the girls chalked up 18 victories without a defeat.

Most impressive of all, however, was the 1931 record with its 17 overwhelming victories, the closest of which was a 20-to-15 win over Mt. Eaton in the county tournament.

Since the county board of education voted to discontinue girls basketball, Creston will have no opportunity to attempt to improve upon this year's record.

A prediction is made that women's hats will become standardized. Of course a man who doesn't know anything about the nature of women was the author of it.

STEERING COMMITTEES TO HELP SPEED OF ASSEMBLY

BY H. EARL WILSON.
COLUMBUS, O.—The difficulty with which both branches of the state legislature have been trying to wade through proposed legislation since they convened on Jan. 5, is at last expected to be relieved with the appointment in each house of steering committees.

Consideration of bills according to their importance as judged by members of the committees will be possible in both the House and the Senate.

Until a calendar committee was appointed in the Senate and the rules committee took over the duties of the joint committee in the House it was necessary for legislators to take up bills in the order in which they appeared on the calendar. This order was decided automatically, the bills which were reported out of committee with little debate appearing at the head of the list and those about which there was controversy being held back for two or three weeks and being put at the foot of the schedule.

A big proportion of the Senate's time during the first week of the session, according to charges of Senator Earl R. Lewis (R) of St. Clairsville, president pro tem of the Senate, was wasted with consideration of bills which should never have appeared on the calendar.

While Republicans believe the agreement is entirely satisfactory, Democrats are naturally suspicious that Republican bills will be passed and their own will be kept from getting to the top of the calendar.

They base their fears on the fact that in each House five members of the steering committee are Republicans and two are Democrats.

They point to the fact that of the first five bills placed on the calendar by the Senate steering committee three were introduced by Republicans and two of those bills which had been proposed by members of the steering committee.

A ruling by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman that Ohio's 23rd and 24th congressmen as provided on the basis of returns from the last census may be elected at-large is expected to slow up activities of the state Senate redistricting committee.

Header by Senator Charles J. Anderson (R) of Shelby, the gerrymandering sub-committee has proceeded as though redistricting would be necessary in time for the 1932 election.

Members of the committee understood that any proposal which could be passed by the two houses of the assembly in its present Republican form probably would be vetoed by the Democratic governor, but were eager to get the work started so that preparations would be under way in case the attorney general ruled differently.

It is expected that an attempt to have the two new congressmen elected at-large and the redistricting delayed until party lines in the legislature and the governor's office are differently drawn, will soon be made.

Belief that several sensational will grow out of the state Senate investigation of the state highway department has been expressed by Senator David P. Lorbach (D) of Cincinnati, chairman of the committee to which the probe has been entrusted.

Senator Lorbach has secretly started his investigation already and has had numerous conferences with one informant whose name he is not yet ready to reveal.

Although the committee hearings will be open to the public, Senator Lorbach has held private conferences with persons who have information which, if made known, might block the success of the investigation, he said.

During the interim between the recess of the regular session April 10 and the beginning of the taxation session April 27, Senator Lorbach will summon and subpoena several persons before the committee and begin the public investigations, he has indicated.

Several senators are known to possess ambitions to become congressmen if the opportunity is presented. Senators Walter G. Nickels (R) of New Philadelphia, and Robert I. Rohe (R) of Tiffin, as well as Senate President Pro Tem Earl R. Lewis (R) of St. Clairsville, are frequently mentioned around the Senate chamber as likely candidates at the next election.

KIWANIS CLUB HELPS SCOUTS

KENTON, O.—A high boy scout camp for all Northwestern Ohio, which promises to be the largest in the state within two years, appears a reality since the signing of a ten-year lease of the north shore of Lake Idlewild, a resort three miles north of this city, by the officers of the Kenton Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the project.

The lease has also been signed by two of the owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Pfeiffer. It is proposed that Kiwanis clubs in each northwestern Ohio community underwrite the expenses of the scout troops from their respective cities during the time of their camp period.

Accommodations will be available for at least ten troops at any one period; two large groves are nearby for scouting and instruction purposes, and a new swimming pool, erected last year, will be available to the boys during the morning hours at no cost to them.

During the entire summer a chief and general camp superintendent and a corps of assistants will be employed by the Kiwanis club and these will look after the boys in addition to their own troop leaders and special camp supervisors.

Kenton Kiwanians are enthused over the possibilities and are straining every effort toward making the Lake Idlewild site a perfect summer camp for boys. Other Kiwanis clubs of the district are to be interested in the project at a district meeting in Lima on March 25.

PHILIPPINES ARE QUAKE STRICKEN

MANILA—Two sharp earthquakes rocked the Philippine Islands today. Several persons were injured and property was damaged by the tremors. No deaths were reported.

The town of Bacarra in the province of Ilocos was badly damaged by an earth shock at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Many buildings were reported to have been knocked down by the shock. A tall church tower also toppled into the street. Several persons were injured by falling debris.

Minor damage was also reported from the provincial capital of Laoag.

The first tremor struck the province of Mindanao at 4 o'clock this morning.

The earth shocks were felt only slightly in Manila.

PLAN TO CHANGE MCKINLEY HOME

CANTON, O.—Restoration of the home of President William McKinley as a national shrine is expected to be resumed immediately following the removal of legal obstacles when heirs of the Meyer estate signed an agreement giving the city clear title to Meyer's Park and waiving all claims to the land.

Removal of the McKinley home to the park was started two years ago but was held up pending the disposition of certain legal technicalities in the city's deed for the site. Funds for the restoration of the home, from where McKinley conducted his front porch campaign, were raised by Spanish-American War veterans.

MARIYVILLE, O., March 22.—Thirteen-year-old Arvilla John of Jackson, Mich., was charged with automobile theft and given a cell in the Union-co jail here today, while her plans for a visit to Dayton to see several relatives were completely upset.

Miss John was arrested when the car in which she was riding alone skidded off the road near here and was badly damaged. She was slightly injured.

Authorities declare the car belongs to Sylvia Somers of Jackson and assert that it was stolen in Jackson Wednesday.

As the world grows wiser and wiser, it finds more and more ways to make a fool of itself.

FESS RECALLS BOYHOOD DAYS

CHARDON, O.—Boyhood days in the maple camps were recalled by Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, in his letter of regret in not being able to attend the Geauga maple festival to be held in Chardon April 2-4.

Senator Fess wrote that the festival has an appeal to him which is most unusual, in that when he was a boy he had much to do with gathering sap from maple trees and boiling it into syrup. The letter was written to Paul E. Denton, publicity director for the festival.

"The climax of those seasons came at 'sugaring off time' which was made rather a gay festival," Senator Fess wrote. "The methods employed at that time were primitive although I presume the modern methods have kept pace with general improvements along other lines."

Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Ohio's junior senator, is expected to attend the ceremonies here as are Ex-Congressman Martin L. Davey and Congressman Chester C. Bolton.

ABSOLUTE MONARCHY RETURN CURE FOR ENGLAND'S ILLS

As a remedy for the ills of the British Empire, G. K. Chesterton has decided to prescribe a return to absolute monarchy, with the Prince of Wales in the role of benevolent despot. Writing in the American Magazine today, Mr. Chesterton insists that democratic governments have proved their inability to control the complex modern world.

"The ancient business of monarchy," says Mr. Chesterton, "is quite likely to start again as a new business, and even an enlarged business. It is of course mere blindness and blundering to suppose that Monarchy is decaying in the modern world. It is returning with much more of a rush than I, who have many old Republican sympathies, should personally wish it to do."

"The danger is much more that future governments will be too despotic than that they will be too democratic. Monarchy is likely to return to excess."

"The Prince of Wales has proved himself a good representative of his people and of his time, by getting on well with all the people all the time. There have been few official popularities of the sort that have needed so little editing, that have been less disturbed by quarrels behind the scenes, that have been more spontaneously supported by the audience. The legend about him is truly a popular legend, in that it has largely grown of itself, and is strengthened by many stories from many lands."

"In other words, he is a man of the modern world in that particular aspect in which it is really a larger world, and by this time rather too large to control. How it is to be controlled, or whether it will be controlled, no man knows."

"On the whole, if the Monarchy should be made once more a reality, which is quite probably in England and has already happened in some parts of Europe, it will probably be well that the individuals involved have passed through this strange modern epoch. In a man

Like the Prince of Wales, a great element of modern natural justice, the nations of which have not unfolded as they may be necessary of the future. "But one man, without consulting to be very wise, will be very frankly gratified if the English Kingship of the English again plays a determining part in that settlement, and believes that it will be no betrayal of the true and eternal principles of popular government if by some hitherto unforeseen political transformation or convulsion, some sort of power should pass to somebody whom we really know to be popular."

Business Emotionalism

NATIONS seem destined to have every boom period culminate in a spectacle of folly. Similarly inevitable is the desire of a large part of the public to make pulp of those who during the bonanza cry "Beware!" This has been the regular order of business in the past and unless something is done now it will be in order during and after every future era of prosperity.

For five years the world gaped admiringly at American economic achievement. In mechanization of industry, efficiency of management, handling of personnel, elimination of waste, destruction of "sales resistance," and promotion of "service" miracles have been wrought. Why should such a performance have to be penalized? It deserves a better sequel than a stock market crash, gold exports, 8 per cent money, the financial ruin of a million speculators and a song of hate.

Is it not because business takes its prosperity with too large a dose of emotion? Business should always be a matter for the head, but the heart runs away with the business head when things are going too smoothly and money is being made too easily.

Excessive optimism, which is emotionalism, hastened, if not caused, the business depression and stock crash, and excessive pessimism—also emotionalism—is delaying the return of prosperity. On the two occasions when the "hard-headed business man" should live up to his name he permits his emotions to run away with him.

Ladies and Monotony

FOR years bird lovers of the United States have been waging a campaign to protect the bald eagle, the national emblem, from possible extermination. This species is specifically protected by law in a number of states and is safeguarded by inference under the Audubon laws, which protect non-game birds.

But these majestic birds are still being wantonly slaughtered in several states and Alaska has been paying a bounty on them, due to the popular but unproved belief that the bald eagle catches live fawns, lambs and foxes on fox farms.

There are so few eagles left that they should be protected in every state, at least until they become plentiful again, which is improbable because they do not thrive in close proximity to human beings.

It is not alone the bald eagle, however, that needs protection. Some of the game birds are threatened with extinction, and there are song birds whose scarcity should warn the nation against their further slaughter as game birds.

There are song birds which should never have been placed in the game classification to be brought to the point of extinction.

Much has been done by the states and the federal government in bird conservation and much remains to be done.

The American Eagle

SYMPATHY goes strongly with the wife who drops her household tasks without warning and goes off to spend a week away from home and family. The routine of even the best ordered household become a dreary bore after a while. The wonder is that more wives do not drop their brooms and dish rags and tie them off to a place where there are no husbands, no children and no meals to plan or prepare.

This is probably the best explanation for the purity leagues, reform societies, literary and art associations, bridge clubs and charities formed in superabundance for the purpose of providing ways and means for the ladies to make themselves a general nuisance. That many of these agencies perform a useful, almost indispensable, work does not alter the fact that women join them to get away from the ennui of household.

But there are complications to these vacations for married folks. The business of seeking to avoid the responsibilities involved in married life is a little more complicated than might appear to the inexperienced. On the whole, the family, as a social unit, is probably still on fairly safe ground.

Science is agreed that man has been too late in starting on a radical plan for the supplanting of the family by society as a whole.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER I.

THE triple rescue was affected by J. J. MacKimmions, Decatur's assistant at the Gales Flat Station.

"Beamer's body was removed early this morning. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made. Mrs. Beamer's father, Virgil Sholar, millionaire steel magnate of Pittsburgh is hurrying to his daughter's bedside."

Nancy read it through to the end.

Read it again . . . R. E. Decatur, a ranger . . . critically injured . . . R. E. . . not even Roger . . . they had not troubled to find that his name was Roger.

As if from a great distance she heard the chatter of the family. Mama's voice . . . "Have everything finished before Louise and Mat get back . . . a really select home tea . . . match the Milton china."

Papa talking about interest grandma talking . . . everybody wrapped up in themselves, and Roger . . . oh, why didn't they say his whole name? It would have helped . . . a little.

In a small, unnatural voice she said, "Did you see . . . paper?"

Out of the fog of their family chatter, mama's voice detached itself, floated to her as if from a megaphone:

"About Jack Beamer? Killed, and his wife hurt too. I meant to speak of it. It just goes to show that you can't be too careful."

The Confession.

"Jack Beamer? Well!" Papa was interested. "Jack Beamer? He looked at Nancy's small, pinched face, and looked badly away again. He was frightfully embarrassed . . . why, why, she must have loved the beggar! She ought to . . . to cover her face."

"Her mother would see . . . Guess I'd better go to bed," he said weakly. He felt suddenly tired and sick. "About all the excitement I can stand for one night."

Nancy picked up the paper again, then let it drop despairingly.

"Well, I'm sure I wouldn't worry about him," mama said brackly. "Don't all I hear he had it come on. But his poor wife—"

Nancy looked at them all with large, stricken eyes. "But you don't understand," she said patiently. "He's my husband."

"Your husband?"

"Yes," said R. E. Decatur here, but it's Roger. He's my husband. He . . . he may die."

"It was good of you to come, Nancy."

"Nothing matters but us, Roger!" she had told him once. "Nothing matters but love!" She had felt brave and reckless saying it, safe within the comfort of his arms.

And now, alone and afraid and conscious that through her own fault she had lost it, perhaps forever, she realized more poignantly than she had ever realized anything in all her twenty years, that it was true.

The Piedmont car brought her into the heart of Oakland. "Can you tell me where I can get a train for Merced?" she asked in a drug-store.

"Fortieth and San Pablo, Santa Fe," the clerk told her in a dry, but at the station the ticket agent shook his head. "No, Miss. Nothing left ten o'clock."

She had opened her eyes, and she was feverishly counting the money.

Patiently waiting.

She waited patiently, her eyes staring straight ahead, her mind wandering far and wide, her heart beating wildly.

First there had been a knock on the waiting room door. "Come in," called the clerk. "The doctor is waiting for you."

WARN FARMERS OF "SCALPERS"

COLUMBUS, O.—A warning to Ohio farmers that seed "scalpers" are at work in the state, was issued today by the state department of agriculture.

There is an unusually large amount of low-grade agricultural seeds being sold in the state, W. W. Ellenwood, chief of the division of plant industry, declared. He warned of the importance of reading the analysis tags attached to seed packages.

Much of the low grade seed, he said, is apparently "tailings" from seed cleaners with a "little good seed added for appearance."

Prisoner Creates Sensation
Saying Guard Captain Is Now On Spot.

JOLIET, Ill., March 23.—The legislative investigation of conditions in the riot-torn state penitentiaries here went forward today with several veteran inmates scheduled to add their testimony to sensational charges that the shooting of three escaping convicts was "murder."

Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, serving life terms for the "Thrill Murder" of young Bobby Franks, were among those convicts scheduled to be heard by the board.

The heavily armed national guard troops and state police who restored order after Wednesday's rioting that resulted in seven buildings being burned down still patrolled the prison grounds today as the investigation progressed.

Prisoners who have testified charged that penitentiary authorities had deliberately allowed the Washington's birthday escape plot to proceed only to shoot down the three convict fugitives. Although it was the parole system and the policies of the pardon and parole board that the prisoners blamed for the prison unrest, it was the triple killing that brought open revolt, the witnesses said.

CREATE SENSATION

The three fugitives shot in the escape, as well as Warden Henry Hill, it was charged, were put on the "spot" to injure the Warden's standing.

One convict, Harvey Rogers of Chicago, created a sensation when he told the legislators that Guard Captain B. A. Davenport is a marked man because the inmates believe he had much to do with the shooting of the trio of convicts. Rogers predicted that Davenport would be killed before long.
